Dear Colleagues:

One of our colleagues, Representative Weinberg, used dehumanizing language ('ruling pigs') in reference to several members of the Board of Representatives in an op-ed that was published in the Stamford Advocate (see attached). These members include African Americans, immigrants, children of immigrants, Latinos, people who speak English as a second language, women, etc. Regardless of whether the members fall into protected classes or not, calling a colleague a 'ruling pig' is always wrong, although the sting may be felt in a sharper way for some.

In addition, Representative Weinberg has spent a lot of time casting aspersions and spreading conspiracies about his Board of Representatives colleagues on Next Door and to the press. Several exhibits are attached which illustrate this point. According to Robert's Rules of Order, Chapter XX, members "are required to be of honorable character and reputation." Furthermore, Robert's Rules of Order Chapter IV section 30 states that members must, "never attack or make any allusion to the motives of members."

The aforementioned behavior is distasteful, divisive, and undermines confidence in the Board of Representatives as the city's legislative body.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey Stella
Stamford Board of Representatives
District 9
