Safe Streets Film + Panel Discussion

Join us for PFS Happy Hour at Towne Parlor afterwards

People Friendly Stamford, in partnership with the Avon Theatre and the Ferguson Library, is hosting the screening of an inspirational new film that spotlights democracy in action and implicitly asks “What do our streets say about our culture?, and “How and why does change happen?”.
Changing Lanes is the directorial debut of cinematographer and producer Ben Wolf. It is the story of how a tragedy spurs a community to action to transform a dangerous street against all odds. It will screen at the Ferguson Library in Downtown Stamford on Thursday December 10th at 6pm sharp. Immediately following the film, PFS will moderate a distinguished panel to discuss the film and its resonance in Stamford and our region. The panel includes:

- Ben Wolf, Cinematographer and Director of Changing Lanes
- David Kooris, Executive Director of the CT Municipal Redevelopment Authority
- A special guest to be announced soon

Registration is required for this FREE event. Register here. Please share this email with your networks.

People Friendly Stamford will host our Holiday Happy Hour immediately following the event at Towne Parlor on Bedford St next door to the Ferguson.

Community News:

- PFS Coffee Hour on Saturday November 21st 10am-12pm at Third Place, 575 Pacific St in the South End
